

ABSTRACT

Graded index lenses, methods, and devices are disclosed. In certain embodiments, the lenses are made from generally cylindrical glass members having a radially varying refractive index and have a pitch less than about 0.23. Other embodiments relate to graded index lenses having a pitch between about 0.23 and 0.25 and an index gradient less than or equal to 0.3.